Colette Anaya has acquired the Decorating Den Interiors franchise that Jan Bromberek has operated since 1996, serving the Greater Chicago Suburbs. Designers Dawn Alpern and Bonnie Bulger will continue to work with Colette in the business, which has been rebranded as the Jacquard Design Team (formerly Bromberek Design Team).

Colette was selected to acquire the franchise after progressing through an extensive qualifying process and completing the company's Decorating Den Interiors University multiphase education program.

Colette comes to Decorating Den Interiors with a background in event planning, cosmetology, and culinary arts. She had previously owned other businesses but had been looking for a way to fulfill her real passion for decorating and interior design.

Colette's dream came to fruition when she acquired the Decorating Den Interiors franchise and says that being able to join this business with an existing team of award-winning designers has been the perfect opportunity.

Colette is detail-oriented and brings a trained eye for color and balance. Her passion lies in making her client's vision come to life, whether it's in their own home or a commercial space.

"We are extremely pleased to see Jan's team continue with Colette," says James S. Bugg, Jr., CEO and President of Decorating Den Interiors. Based in Easton, Maryland, Decorating Den Interiors is North America's largest interior design and home furnishings franchise company with over 250 franchises across the U.S. and Canada.
